The Electrical Board Not Making Much Headway in Its Crusade Against the Wires.

Allowing the Companies to Re-Establish Some of Their Circuits.

Mayor Grant Awaiting Judge Andrews's Decision on the lujunctions.

Ceroner Schultze to Begin a Thorough Inquest in the Feeks Tragedy To-Morrow.

To-day no official body was found to be making much headway in the crusade against the deadly overhead electric wires, begun so vigorously after Lineman Feeks's death.

The Electrical Board had no meeting and Mayor Grant was awaiting the decision of Judge Andrews on the companies' injunctions. In view of the probability that it will be several days before the electric light companies will be ready to operate their wires, gas lamps are going up again in all parts of the city.

In most of the principal parks they are now being put up, and a large number of workmen are employed by the Department of Public Works in hastening the completion of the job. It is probable that the Park Commissioners will revoke all the permits they have issued for the maintenance of high tension wires in the public parks, and the resolutions which they passed yesterday to that effect are now under the consideration of the Corp ration Counsel.

If he reports favorably all poles and wires operated with the "atternating current will be at once removed from the parks. SOME ELECTRIC LIGHTS TO-NIGHT.

Some of the electric circuits belonging to the Brush and United States Company will be in operation to-night, the expert of the Board of Electrical Control having given his certificate of their proper insulation. STRINGING NEW WIRES.

Linemen employed by the companies are repairing old wires and stretching new ones in the place of old, worn-out lines in all parts of the city to-day, and by the time the decision of the Court has been rendered in the injunction right it is probable that all the wires of the Brush and United States companies will be in greatly improved condition, better, in fact, than they have been at any time during the past two or three years.

MAYOR GRANT DISSATISTIED.

MAYOR GRANT DISSATISFIED. This, however, does not please Mayor Grant, who would like to see the wires go underground with all possible speed, instead of giving the companies another long lease of life overhead. THE PERES INQUEST.

Preparations are being made in the Coroners' fice for the inquest in the case of Lineman ecks, which will be commenced to-morrow iorning by Coroner Schultze. MANY WITNESSES.

Among the witnesses who have already been subponsed are Supt. Humstone, of the Western Union; Linemen Cunningham and Darragh, who rescued Feeks's body from the network of wires: three firemen belonging to the adjoining engine-house; Commissioner Gibbens, Expert Schuyler S. Wheeler and the dead man's relatives.

EXPERTS SUMMONED. It is intended to summon a number of electrical experts, including C. S. Cuttux, of the Mackay-Bennett Cable Company, and William Mayer, ir., an electrical engineer, but they have not been subpœniaed yet, as so many witnesses have already been summoned for the first day. PROMINENT JURYMEN.

The jury will consist of prominent and influential citizens, among whom will probably be Charles Hauselt, Prof. Felix Adler, Frank E. Towle, Henry Bischoff and Charles H. Haswell. W. W. Astor and Thomas A. Edison have also been summoned to serve as jurors.

Eleven Games to Alternate Between New York and Brooklyn.

Series of Contests Ever Seen.

The world's championship series begins to-

A two hours' conference, ending at 7.45 last evening, in the office of the Sporting Times, resulted in an almost complete arrangement for the series.

President Day and Manager Mutrie repre-ented the New York Club and President Byrne and Director Abell held up the Brooklyn end. It is understood that previous to the meeting the directors of each club had made satisfactory arrangements with the players as to the division of profits accruing from the games, for the contracts of the players of both teams will have expired before the completion of the series.

At the meeting last night the following schedule was adopted, providing for eleven games:

Those of Oct. 18, 21, 23, 25, 28 and 30 will be at the Polo Grounds.

Those of Oct. 19, 22, 24, 26 and 29 at Washington Park, Brooklyn.

The games will begin at 3, 30 o'clock.
Should rain prevent any game such same will be played off on the succeeding day on the grounds originally scheduled.

The matter of umpires will be settled to-day.
In spite of the popular demand for John Kelly, probabilities point to the selection of McQuaid, of the League, by Brooklyn, and Gaffney, of the Association, by New York.
Each club will keep the receipts of its own grand stand, the other receipts to be equally divided.

As soon as either club shall have won six tracts of the players of both teams will have ex-divided.

As soon as either club shall have won six games, the series will be closed.

Everything points to as bitterly contested and exciting a series of games as have ever been played.

Brooklyn has proved her superiority in the Association as emphatically as have the Giants in the League, but the general impression seems to be that Mutrie's men will prove too last for the stars of the Association, and veteras base-ballists, cranks and critics prophesy a Gotham victory.

Still, as the great Mutrie himself hath said,

John Broderick avoided reporters this morning, and his brother, who was found in his undertaking establishment at 147 Madison had advised him to have nothing more to say.

Ward Detective Cornelius Lesry, of the Madison street station, said to an Evening World reporter:

ward Detective Cornelius Leary, of the Madisson street station, said to an Evenino World reporter:

'I never received a cent of the $2,000 reward obtained by Broderick from the Republican National Committee last Fall, although I expected to and was entitled to it.

'I arrested the man George Gordon, who was convicted of illegal registration on Oct. 9 last year and sentenced by Judge Cowing to two years in the State prison.

'I got my information about him from Broderick and another man named Earrett, and it was my testimony which convicted him.

'I obtained permission from Police Commissioner French to accept a part of the reward, and after it was paid over to Broderick went to him several times and demanded it.

'I nover got a cent of it to this day, and the story about the four-hundred-dollar check is absolutely false and can be easily proved so."

Detective Leary has been on the police force eighteen years and has been seven years in the Seventh Fracinct.

He denied that Policeman Donnelly or other officers in the preceinct had organized any conspiracy to boy cott Broderick.

Cincinnati, Oct. 17.—Hundreds of people gathered restords at the scene of Tuesday's frightful accident on the Mount Auburn incline plane. Miss Oskamp continues to live at the hospital, and has once or twice shown some hospital, and has once or twice shown some signs of returning consciousness, but the physicians cannot give any as urance that she will recover. Mrs. Hochstetter has been conscious, but her recovery siso is extremely doubtful. Young McFadden is in a fair way to recover. Mrs. Russell Errett, who was instantly killed, was the last one to be identified, and this gave rise to several incorrect statements o, the names of the dead. Mrs. Errett was the wife of Mr. Russell Errett, President of the Standara Publishing Company. She livel at No. 342 Findiary street and was going to Mount Auburn to look for a house. When Mr. Errett went home last night she had not returned. The possibility that she might have been in the secident occurred to him, and he went first to the hospital and then to the Morgue, where he found her mangled body. The shock was terrible.

Last night her hu-band, William Graham, called at Police Headquarters to ask for police aid in finding his wife. He said they lived at No. 485 Fourth avenue. Last Monday morning they had a little tiff about a man named McCoskey and Mrs. Graham became exasperated. When Mr. Graham returned home in the evening he found the wife missing and the two little ones crying bitterly.

Expectations of the Most Exciting Fourth Important Step Towards No Slackening in the Popular Demand Gridironing New York.

> It Follows Hard Upon Col. Dan's Purchases of the Broadway's Franchise and the Twentythird Street Road.

Still another move towards the accomplishment of that great scheme for an all comprehensive railway system in New York, in which Col. Dan Lamont and the Whitney-Elkins syndicate are interested.

Shrewd men, who have good memories and a faculty for keeping the run of things, point to the attempt to get cable cars on Broadway as

The syndicate, which is seeking to obtain cor trol of substantially all the street railways in New York, to run them on a grand "transfer system, like that in vogue in Philadelphia, is said to have in its eye also, the substitution of the cable for horses as a motive power, and they the cable for horses as a motive power, and they point to these remarkable coincidences:

In 1884, when Broadway was put up at auction by the "boodle combine" of the Board of Aldermen, there was but one other serious proposition before the Common Council besides the retition of the Broadway Surface Railroad Company, of which Jake Sharp was the moving spirit.

Company, of which Jake Sharp was the moving spirit.

That other proposition was from the Cable Bailway Company, of which William C. Whitney, afterwards Secretary of the Navy in President Cleveland's Cabinet, was the President.

This Cable Company asked not only for Broadway but for a number of other streets. They proposed to gridiron the city, and wanted a franchise to lay cable roads in 129 miles of streets, for which they would pay the city $1,000,000 and the statutory yearly rental of 3 per cent. for five years, and 5 per cent. on their gross earnings thereafter.

Jake Sharp beat them, and for a time they were quiet.

Jake Sharp beat them, and for a time they were quiet.

Now, out of politics again, Mr. Whitney comes to New York, so does Col. Dan Lamont, the Presidential private secretary.

Next Col. Lamont appears as the new Secretary of a big Guarantee and Trust Company, in which Mr. Whitney and several others of the old cable road people figure prominently, and the objects of which are not clearly stated by the members.

the objects of which are not clearly stated by the members.

And next Col. Lamont becomes President of the Avenue C liste of street railway, then figures as the quiet purchaser of the franchise and rights of the Broadway surface road, and then as the acting party in a negotiation by which Jacob Sharp's darling enterprise, the Twenty-third Street Crossown lines is leased for 1999 years to gentlemen whose hames he is not permitted to disclose."

At the auction sale where Col. Lamont bid in the Broadway surface property, ex-Secretary Whitney, Peter B. Widener, Stove Ethins, Phys.

Clerk Peterson to-day, at the direction of Police Supt. Murray, entered formal charges against Detective Cornelius Leary and Policeman E. J. Donnelly, of the Malison street station, on ex-Election inspector John Broderick's complaint of blackmail, as told in The Eveniso World's sporting extra last evening.

Broderick is the man who received Matt Quay's $2,000 reward for the discovery of a plot to perpetrate registration frauds during the Harrison campaign.

He claims that Detective Leary demanded the reward, but agreed to take $400, telling Broderick and Lawyer John J. Collins that he had promised to make good that amount to Capt. Garland.

Broderick says that he gave Leary a check for $400, and that he now has the cancelled check.

able the Company to run long, commodious cars at a higher rate of speed and comfort to the passengers, while the increased earnings of the road would increase the city's income from the road to fully $200,000 per annum. Mr. Hoot also offers to repair the eighteen feet of Broadway which the franchise covers, and

All. Root also oners to repair the eighteen feet of Broadway which the franchise covers, and makes other glittering promises.

The knowing ones say "I told you so," and insist that this is but another move in the scheme for gridironing Manhattan Island with cable railways by the very men who failed in their efforts to obtain a franchise from the Board of Aldermen of 1884, because, forsooth, their offer of $1,000,000 was to the city rather than to the industrious combine for revenue only within that Board.

More than a year ago it was rumored in reliable quarters that Mesers. Whitney, Cleveland, Lamont & Co. had a darling scheme whereby they were to obtain control of the New York and Northern Railway, from One Hundred and Fitty-fifth street over to Tremont, and that they would connect it with the New England road, near the Massachusetts line, thus forming a short line between New York and Boston, and now this story is revived in connection with the elaborate plan for cabling all the principal streets of the city,

[SPECIAL TO THE WORLD. ] YANKTON, S. Dak., Oct. 17, -John C. Murphy. United States Attorney for Dakota, says that the enforcement of the Prohibitory law may be impossible in South Dakota until three months after the adjournment of the Legislature. He quotes section 22 of article 3 of the Constitution, which reads: tion, which tea's:

No act shall take effect until ninety days after

This precludes hope of assistance from the Legislature unless the required two-thirds of all one members elected can be secured, which is hardly possible. Therefore it is questionable if it is possible to prevent the rale of intexicating liquors in South Dakota until ninety days after the adjournment of the Legislature.

"Have you got Blaine out yet?" This is the question which everybody is putting to everybody else.

The "Blocks of Five" fever has taken hold of the people of this bailiwick, and its ravages extend to all classes, from the newsboys between editions to the banker or professional man after

Everybody seems anxious to aid President Harrison in this undoubted task of getting his Secretary of State out of the Cabinet. "Who makes that puzzle?" a gentleman asked a street fakir who was exchanging the little boxes for silver dimes on Park Row. "Fives & Blocksley, 294 Broadway," he re plied, absent-mindedly.

Ives & Blakesiee's store was swarmed with per lives & Blakesiee's store was swarmed with people when an Evenino World reporter called there to-day. There was a crowd blocking the sidewalk and gazing in at the window where the original "Blocks of Five" is hung in a gold frame eight inches deep.

This is the box which Harrison's solicitous friend sent to him about the time that it became apparent that Blaine was crowding him into a dark corner.

Biaine caught Harrison at work on the little bother and be dudn't try to laugh at Harrison's rib-tickling joke about how he was laboring to get Blaine out.

The little box of whittled blocks went into the waste basket, where a disheartened office-seeker found it, and brought it to this office. Then he got it copyrighted, patented and protected, and now he says he wants no office under the Indiana man, for he is rapidly accumulating a fortune out of the httle puzzle.

Mr. Blakeslee says 500,000 of the puzzles are already soid in the jobbing trade, and they are making people wild all over the country.

Selchow & Righter and E. I. Horsman display them in their windows, and Ives & Blakeslee have them stacked up like cordwood.

"Blocks of Five?" says T. P. Barrett, the king of the fakirs, who was seen at his store, 28 Ann atreet. "Well, I should say! I've been supplying the fakirs for twenty-five years, and I never saw a craze like the "Blocks of Five." Why, when there was a hitch in the work at the factory for three days, they almost made me crazy. I run 400 to 500 fakirs—street venders—in this town all the time. I pay a City Marshal's license of 55.50 spice for them, and every man of 'em is making a hit on "Blocks of Five." though they are licensed to sell any general merchandise.

"Now, Ill tell you something. My fakirs sold 302,400 'Pigs in Clover pozzles, and the Missing Link, or the Whitechastel Mystery, sold to the tune of 25,000 gross, but neither of them started like 'Blocks of Five.' I have put out 80,000 of them already.

and for 15 cents I send the puzzle anywhere in the country.

The replies to The Wonld's $100 prize offer for the quickest solution of the buzzle are coming in by the bushel, and it alt the statements are true, there are some very minible fingers and expert brains at work on the "Blocks of Five,"

Some of the answers are addressed to The Evening Wonld. Here is one from E. C. Prescott, real estate dealer, 184 East Seventich street. Mr. Fre cott says: I can put Blaine out and Harrison in in one minute and fifteen seconds, and will wager $50 that I can Jo it inside of two minutes. Man and money ready any time.

R. M. A. says: I can get Blaine out and Harrison in in seventy seconds. If it were Cleveland, I could get him in in half the time.

H. E. Botsford's best time is 2,40, and William J. Doran, of 2157 Eighth avenue, can do it in from one to two minutes.

Mrs. Barnard, of 101 West One Hundred and Pourth street, writes:

Fourth street, writes:

Having spent several pleasant evenings with the Blocks of Five prusie I can safely say I can put Harrison in and Blaine out in one minute and a quarter, and I desire to be one of the competitors for The Woald's $100 prize.

Mrs. Dearing, of 96 East One Hundred and Fourteenth street, has two daughters, fourteen and twelve years old, who can oust Mr. Blaine in two minutes each.

The game is fascinating, Honest old Josh Whitcomb kept his audience waiting five minutes over time last night, and the call-boy found him hard at work putting Blaine out.

Without asking for an increase his pension was raised from $31 to $72 per month, while acores of similar cases were checked by the decapitation of the liberal Corporal. There is a bustle of activity about the loading of the big Hill line steamship Furnessia at the Prentice Stores, Brooklyn, to-day, which can be ompared to nothing but the shipment of cav-

Busy, hoarse-voiced men, nervous, pawing, mpatient steeds, bales of bay and straw, boxes. barrels and sacks of merchaudise, vociferous mates, grumbling sailors and profane longshoremen-all combine to make a picture which, once seen, will never fade from the memory. The occasion of all this bustle is the shipment

About four hundred horses will be taken to England on the Furnessia for this show. Among them will be some fine trotting horses with records ranging from 2,20 to 2,40. Theory That Roff Was Shot While Interfering to Save Bloodshed.

Engaged in a Violent Quarrel,

A mysterious shooting case is puzgling the police of the East Sixty-seventh street station to-day.

A bullet from a rifle killed Stephen Reff. a truckman, in the office of his employer, Herbert Muxlow, expressman at 1387 Third avenue. hortly after 6 o'clock last evening.

The shooting occurred in the little back room of the office, which is separated from the front room by a glass partition.

As far as the police can learn, there was no one present at the time but Muxlow and Reff. Muxlow is a wealthy man, who resides with his amily at Peckskill. In addition to his express business Munior was a large storage-house, and a skating-rink at Lexington avenue and One Hundred and Seventh street. He and his son were both arrested on suspicion of knowing more than they told about the shorting.

Young Muxlow professed entire ignorance of the tragedy. His father said that he ordered Roff to put the rific in a case in order to send it to his home in Peckskill, and that while doing so the weapon

as accidentally discharged by Roff, the bullet entering his abdomen.

Policeman Ambrose Moncrieff, of the Sixty seventh street station-house, was summon quarter of an hour after the shooting place. Roff's body was then lying on the floor Muxlow was near by, as cool as a cucumber.

"He killed himself," was the only explanation he gave the policeman. Monorieff, however, learned that previous to the killing of Rol Muxlow and his son William and quarrelled What about is not known. They were about coming to blows when Mrs. Muxlow appeared. She had come from Peeks kill to see her husband. Finding her boy with his hand raised against his father, she said: My son, you ought to be ashamed of yourself to attempt to strike your father. Leave here at once."

The young man went out and hung around the stable in Seventy-fourth street. Soon after Mrs. Muxlow went to a restaurant near by for her supper. While she was gone, Mr. Muxlow asserts, he told Roff to pack the rifle in a pair of blankets, in order to send it to Peakskill, and while doing so the man scei-dentally shot himself.

The police have a theory that William re-turned to the office and renewed the quarrel with his father; that in the heat of passion either man picked up the rife to shoot the other, and that Roff, springing between them to save bloodshed, received the bullet himself. Roff had only been in Muxlow's employment about a month. He was married, and lived at 26 Marion istreet, where his body was removed last night.

26 Marion istreet, where his body was removed last night.
Detectives Campbell and Martin arrested the Muxiows, father and son, and arraigned them in the Yorkville Court this morning.
There was no evidence to show that young Muxiow was present when the shooting took place, and he was discharged. His father, however, was held for examination on Monday next.
Mrs. Muxlow says that when she returned to her husband's place of business Roff was leaning on a dry-goods box looking deathly white!
"What is the matter?" she asked.
"The thing went off and hit me in the stom ach," he answered, and then fell to the floor. "Mrs. Muxlow summoned a physician, but the wounded man died before anything could be done to save him.
Coroner Hanley will hold an inquest on the body of Roff to-morrow at 2, 30 o'clock.
